GULLETT'S Patent Steel Brush COTTON GIN. THESE GIN STANDS, for which I am the only traveling agent in North Mississippi and Tennes-see, differ from all others by combining the use of a see, differ from all others by combining the use of a Steel Could drush, with two Bristle Brushes, thereby subjecting the Cotton to a slight caiding process without the least injury to the stayle, and at the same time removes much of the dirt, with other foreign substances. Attached is also a Duster, in front and under the Saws, he just injury to the staple, and at the same time rehe just injury to the staple, and at the same time rehoves much of the dirt, with other foreign substances.

Attached is also a Duster, in front and under the Sawe, which adds largely to its capacity for cleanaing and improving the sample. It is not complicated or liable to get out of order; can be run with the ordinary power used; gins very rapidly, and performs well a every respect.
